"Hon. Richard Dickerman, of Tucson a member of the 24th Council, and his wife and Edward Vail, treasurer of Pima county, were the guests of Mrs. K. W. Williams last Sunday. The party had been visitors at the Grand Canyon and from this city they journeyed to Flagstaff and Oak Ureek. Mr. Dickerman holds a prominent position with the Southern Pacific opening the vast treasures of Mother railway company at Tucson, while Mr. Vail, in addition to discharging the duties of a county office, is extensively engaged in the cattle business. This for Tombstone.-Tombstone Prospecwas their first visit to the northern part of the Territory and they expressed themselves delighted with the climate and the industries of the country."

According to Mr. Hill, when he left the big structure was up five feet and associates, who recently took over above the old level of the river and that some time this week it would be up at least eight feet.

This is the best news that has come from Phoenix for along time and indicates that the O'Rourke people are doing their level best to get the dam up high enough to withstand the summer floods when they come.

Every foot that it put onto the dam affords just that much protection to the coffer dam below, and if it can be built high enough before the floods come the space in between will not be filled up as it was last summer, thus delaying matters for several months .-

Her Malden Effort.

A certain judge had been away from his native city for years, and upon his return found it difficult some times to recognize former acquaintances. One morning a youngish woman entered the trolley car and set down next the judge.

"How do you do, judge?" she said cordially. "I don't believe you re-member me? I am Mrs. X."

"Why so it is! Mrs. X, I am delighted to meet you again. How do you do? And who is this with you? It can't be your son! Bless me, I would not believe you had a son so big."

"Oh, yes," replied the guileless Mrs. X., flattered by his cordiality. "He is my first born-my maiden effort, judge."-July Lippincott's.

Items of Interest Culled From Our Exchanges.

The Yuma Examiner states that Capt. Townserd has gone to San Diego to get a lot of flying fish with which to stock Yuma waters. Flying fish are the kind for the arid region. When a water hole dries up, they can fly to the next one. If they could be trained to carry canteens, they would do ven better. It is a fact, however, than fine trout and other fishing is to be had in the mountains of Arizona.

New Camp In Sonora.

In the Magdalena district of Sonora, about twenty-five miles by wagon road southeast of Nogales, are the Santa Cruz mountains, which occupy a broad bend of the river of that name. On their western slope extensive discoveries of copper sulphide ores have brought in a swarm of prospectors and miners. Col W. C. Greene has just completed the denouncement of 4,000 pertenencias, P. Sandoval & Co, Bankers of Nogales, have taken up 100 pertenencias, Arnold & Company of Cananea, have 50 pertenencias, and Geo. Derrick, of Cananes, 200 pertenencias-in all claims more

The claims are chiefly on the southwest slope of the mountain, which is furrowed by three large gulleys. The area is approximately five miles by supplied by a graduate of the Freitberg mining school: "The country rock are described as granite overlain by porophyry, ore being, it is said, found in both surface indications were faint parallel lines of malachity; on sinking a few teet chalcopyrite ore was found. The first discovery was made by Edwin Arnold, mayor of Cananea, a Mexican citizen of Swiss descent, shortly before Christmas of 1906. He has a shaft down 100 feet. The vein began with a width of four feet at the surface. It is now said to be over twenty feet wide. A tunnel has been started to meet the bottom of this shaft at a distance of 180 feet from the side of the mountain.

"In this tunnel sulphides of copper are encountered at a distance of seven feet. Nearly all of it is in ore.

"Samples taken from these workings are said to carry 20 to 40 per cent copper and average 07 oz. gold. Twenty or thirty prospect holes have recently been opened many of which have struck ore. This new history of the county and is reflected in the sheriff's bill for fees.

A Menace to the Ranges.

resinous matter that when pres together it remains in that condition and, unlike other plants, has not enough elasticity in it to resist the resinous adhesion of the leaves and return to its original shape. Because ofits resinous properties the bush is highly inflammable and burns readily whether green or dry. If pressed into briquettes it would make an excellent fuel. It does not grow more than about a foot high and from twelve to eightren inches in diameter. Fortunately it is easily destroyed by fire. Prof. J. J. Thornber, who identified the plant for the writer, states that a bush even when but partially burned will die. Stockmen can readily rid their ranges of the pest by a careful application of the torch. That they will be obliged to do so before long is Greene-Cananea Dividends.

The Boston News Bureau says that the recent strength of Greene-Cananea copper stock was due to the fact that dividends will soon be started on the shares, and then adds: "According to interests who seem to be in close touch with the company the initial dividend is likely to be 30 cents a dividend of $1.20 a share would call for a yearly disbursement of $3,000,000. The Greene Consolidated Company, before it was turned over to the Greene-Cananea Company, paid at the rate of 24 per cent, a year on its stock, which called for disbursements of $2,400,000 a year. In order to give the Greene Consolidated Copper stockholders the same amount in dividends as they received prior to the merger, the Greene Cananea Co. would be compelled to pay $1.50 a share, or $4,000,000 a year on the stock. However, the Cananea Central Co, a subsidiary of the Greene Cananea Co., is holders of the parent company will probably be favored with larger disbursements,"
